Persons with Disabilities

Our 2011 Festival Accessibility Project was a first step towards organizing our site and our systems in a way that ensures that people of diverse needs and abilities can truly engage with the festival as an audience and as volunteers. It is truly heartbreaking how our communities, cultural events, homes, parks and other public spaces exclude people in their design. We look forward to the ongoing implementation of universal design principles to make sure our event considers diversity at every turn, including folks with mobility challenges, young families, elders and individuals with health issues. We have made improvements to our paths, created accessible viewing areas, improved maps and provided training to volunteers.

Roving Water Crews and Water stations are available throughout the weekend to meet your water needs. Reusable water bottles are available to purchase at The CD Tent and The Hub.

SECTION 4 – COMMUNICATIONS

Internet

We will have Wi-Fi access across the festival site. This means you can upload your festival pics to Flickr and Facebook throughout the weekend, tweet about the festival or check your emails. Tag your posts with #VIMF to help others find out about the festival!

Radio Communications

You may be assigned a radio as part of your volunteer work. Please keep in mind that clear and professional radio communication is key to the safety and image of the festival. Keep your radio communications brief and to the point.

Identify the person you want to contact TWICE then identify yourself once. e.g. “Security, Security this is Camping”. This means Camping is calling Security.

To respond to a call identify yourself once e.g. “Security.” This is all you need to say to respond to the above call.

Use position rather than a name whenever you can. “Front Gate Security” is better than “Ron” which could be confused with “Don” or “John”. If you have been assigned a radio ensure you are on the correct channel assigned to your department.

Channel 1 Security (all securities, Youth Outreach, Little Musicfesters) CRESSLYNN & MARCY

Channel 2 Service (Beer Gardens, Volunteer Check-In, CD Signing, MusicFest Hosts)

Channel 3 Box Office

Channel 4 Performer (Performer Hospitality, Performer Check In, Stage Crew, Hotel Shuttle)

Channel 5 Environment/ Water Crew

Channel 6 Parking & Camping

Channel 7 First Aid

When you press the button, pause for a count of 2 before you speak. Wait for a break in radio traffic before you speak to avoid overlap and confusion. Ensure That their conversation is over before you start using your radio. Please only use the radios for important communication

Emergency Radio Codes

There are 3 radio codes that you need to be aware of: RED, AMBER, and BLACK.

Code Black - Radio Silence. STOP. DO NOT CALL THIS CODE If you hear this code do not use the radio it must remain clear for emergency communications.

Code Red on Channel 1- Serious emergency. You may call this code if you are calling for help for a life threatening, emergency or serious injury situation. Say” Code Red” three times and identify your location.

Code Amber - Missing Child - DO NOT CALL THIS CODE. This code is only called by our Production Manager or MusicFest Security Team. If you hear this code stay off the radio and wait for instructions.
